when I don’t lose weight!

A Coach for Me is here to help teens battling with their weight and low self-esteem.

Childhood & Teen Obesity affects Health and Self-Esteem

Health Problems

- Type II diabetes
- Early onset of heart disease
- High blood pressure
- High cholesterol
- Painful joints and feet
- Asthma
- Disabling migraines
- Health risk of early death equal to that of a person that smokes

Emotional Problems

- Depression
- Low self-esteem
- Social isolation
- Being bullied
- Sexual promiscuity
- Higher rate of drug and alcohol abuse
- Higher rate of dropping out of school
- Twice the risk of attempting suicide

WHY COACHING IS DIFFERENT

With a diet or a diet center, a person is set up to fail. Programs such as Jenny Craig and Nutrisystem have a 75% failure rate. The problem is what they are missing; coaching and mentoring on a regular basis.

A Coach for Me specializes in childhood and teen obesity. We deal with more than the weight issue. We coach our clients to change their thinking and help empower them to make changes in all aspects of their lives, leading them to a healthier and happier life.

We focus on 5 aspects of a healthy life:

- Physical health
- Emotional health
- Social health
- Mental health
- Spiritual health

We meet with our clients twice a week for at least 90 days. Why 90 days? Because research indicates people that focus on a goal for 90 days are more likely to succeed. For example, switching to a more healthy way of eating and exercising.

Childhood is tough enough for children today. As parents, we want to do everything possible to help our children feel better and be healthier. A Coach for Me can help stop the pattern of diet failure and turn it into a pattern of success. Working as a team with parents and their child, we can help the whole family discover good health and happiness!
